

Grenadines Update and back to the Virgin Islands (?)

Update on the Grenadines Dates

For those of you keeping track, our final plans for going to the Grenadines are in place. We are leaving St. Thomas on May 16, island hopping down the chain, and arriving at Blue Lagoon in St. Vincent on June 1 after a short loop through the Grenadines. We have just one guest for the relocation adventure if you want to join us. Then two couples will be aboard for a fun week in the Grenadines. Next we sail to Grenada and haul-out for Jalapeno's post Irma/Maria beauty treatment.

Jalapeno will go back in the water circa November 15 in time for a Thanksgiving charter. If you have a M-F work week, this is a great time to get a 9-day vacation for just 3-days off work. Grandma will understand.

I currently have two active inquiries for charters around Christmas and New Year, but can put you in a back-up position if those are your ideal dates. Otherwise, lots of other weeks available while we are down island to join us in the Grenadines, or elsewhere in the Windward and Leeward Islands.

Back to the Virgin Islands for Spring?

We are planning to be in and around the Grenadines until January, at which time we are thinking of heading back towards the Virgin Islands for the spring. If you want a bit more adventure, join us for a segment of the trip from Grenadines back to the Virgin Islands. Or book a spring charter in the USVI, BVI and Spanish Virgins. Or ask us to stay in the Grenadines just a bit longer while plans can change.

If any of these dates or locations are of interest to you, email ray@jalapenocharters.com to discuss availability.

Captain Ray
Jalapeno Charters

