

Jalapeno Charters Spring 2019

Trip from the Grenadines to the Virgin Islands

While in Grenada this past summer, Jalapeno had work done to fix cosmetic issues created by hurricanes Irma and Maria, including removal of both masts for painting and rigging maintenance. Upon launch in November we started our season with a Grenadines charter from Grenada to St. Vincent, and then continued with a leisurely trip all the way to the Virgin Islands for Christmas, New Year, and January Charters. After a ski break, we will be back in the Virgin Islands for those of you with Spring charters.

A big thank you to JR, Chrissy, Coleen and Jeff for submitting reviews from their recent charters. You can find these and all our other reviews at our VRBO/HomeAway/Expedia booking site or on the guests comments page of the Jalapeno Charters website.

nicely making way

Virgins to the Grenadines Spring 2019

We still have open dates during April for charters in the Virgin Islands if you know of anybody looking to book. I'm thinking an "off the beaten path" trip to the Spanish Virgins might be fun too.

Staying with our plans to do more sailing in the Lesser Antilles, and have Jalapeno safely out of the hurricane zone for the summer, we will again be doing a spring trip down the island chain to the Grenadines. Dates will be in late May and June.

Possible Spring Segments:

the Virgin Islands
St. Kitts to Guadeloupe
Guadeloupe and Dominica
Martinique and St. Lucia
the Grenadines

Captain Ray
Jalapeno Charters